Code & Coffee | November 4, 2023
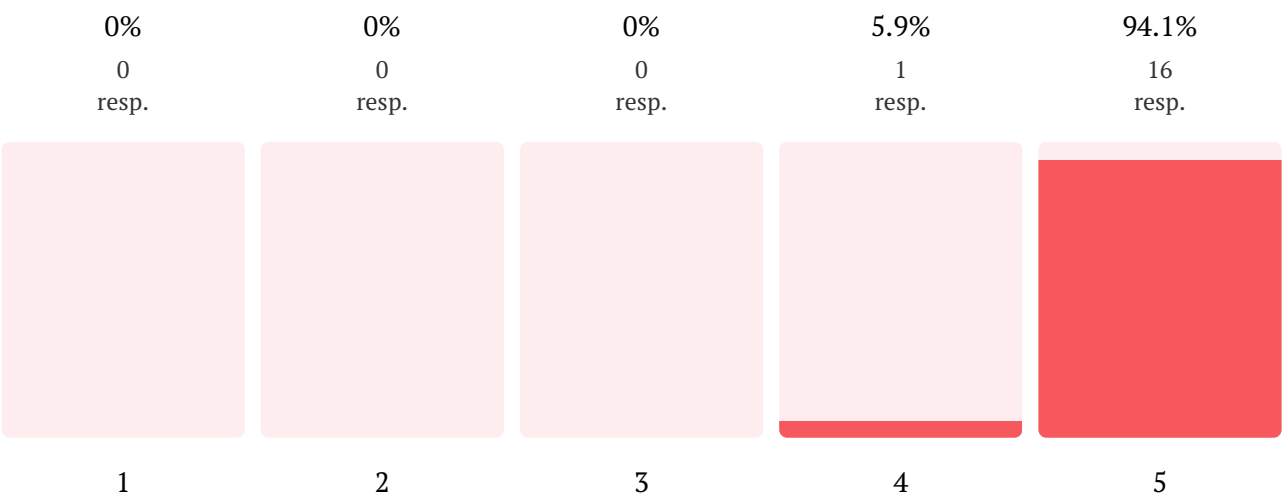

17 responses

How was your experience at Dulles Code & Coffee today

17 out of 17 answered

4.9 Average rating

	1	2	3	4	5
%	0%	0%	0%	5.9%	94.1%
resp.	0	0	0	1	16

Did you attend today's tech talk?

17 out of 17 answered
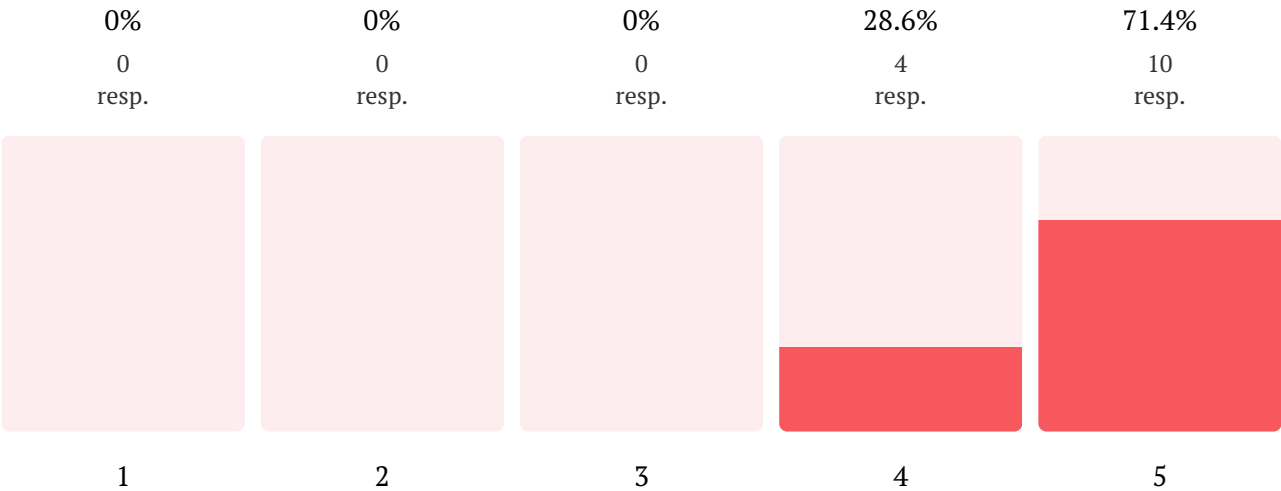

Yes   14 resp.   82.4%

No
3 resp.   17.6%

How satisfied were you with the tech talk?

14 out of 17 answered

4.7 Average rating

0%	0%	0%	28.6%	71.4%
0	0	0	4	10
resp.	resp.	resp.	resp.	resp.

| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 |

What was good about the tech talk?

14 out of 17 answered

It was informative and relative to my current work as a front end developer.

Practical, up to date, not long

Learned few new tips

It addressed very current issues and presented good solutions for complex problems

Just learning how to make css intrinsic...it gave me a lot to think about when it comes to responsive design and what I already know and to learn that there is a solution to some of the issues I was facing

Knowledgeable presenter, good insight into the future of CSS

It was concise while demonstrating examples of what was spoken during the talk

Everything!

Introduced new CSS features

Loved the Enthusiasm

Css

Learning about new approaches for css

Taught me about CSS, something I wanted to learn.

Learned something new.

What would have improved the tech talk?

12 out of 17 answered

N/a

N/A

Maybe a little more microphone coaching before giving the talk 😅

More information about how intrinsic design interacts with existing CSS tools

N/A

Better audio

More examples and where to learn more

Confidence, Or abit of the stumbling; the talk doednt need to be too rehearsed from word by word, but an air of confidence such that if a page doesnt load correctly or a slide is skipped, the presenter would still appear calm or speak without too much confusion or emotional uncertainty.

?

Add more real life examples

There were cases where the presenter used a term that had not been defined. "CSS variable", "viewport", etc.
N/A

How many times have you attended Dulles Code & Coffee?

17 out of 17 answered
This was my second or third time!   9 resp. 52.9%

I'm a regular! I've been here more than three times!   4 resp. 23.5%

Today was my first time!   4 resp. 23.5%

Do you have any other feedback you'd like to share regarding Dulles Code & Coffee?

10 out of 17 answered

Maybe tables with tech industry area labels like network engineers, machine learning, backend development, etc.

Keeping the tech talk(s) relatively short keeps the networking opportunity. I can imagine even a couple short talks with 5mins QA and still plenty of time for full floor being open. Today I really enjoyed the topic and the timing.

N/A

I like emphasizing folks with jobs to offer and making that clear. Posting openings in the slack channel after if you share them in the circle has been helpful at other meetups I've been to.

NA

You all are great! Thanks for hosting the Dulles chapter

Have a POC sheet to continue networking after the event

Maybe record the talks and out them online (so the speaker could add this to their resume)!

I have one for introductions part , but I will talk to one of organizers.

None